

2022 IMPACT REPORT

PERSEVERANCE

Profile in perseverance: Dr. Vanessa Rouzier

Born and raised in Haiti, Dr. Vanessa Rouzier completed her medical studies abroad and returned to her home country in 2009 as the Chief of Pediatrics at GHESKIO, where she now serves as Head of Research.

One of her most far-reaching successes was leading a cholera vaccination program in Port-au-Prince during the catastrophic 2010 cholera outbreak. Results were so significant that they prompted the World Health Organization to include cholera vaccination in its emergency prevention response to cholera outbreaks.

Dr. Rouzier is especially passionate about improving health among women and children living with HIV in Haiti and other resource-limited settings. Her expertise, commitment and humble demeanor make her a critical asset for GHESKIO.

“My work at GHESKIO is not just a job. It’s a calling for me – and my colleagues – to face incredibly difficult circumstances and bring hope to the most marginalized communities in Haiti.”

Dr. Vanessa Rouzier - Associate Professor of Pediatrics, Weill Cornell Medical College; Director of Pediatric Research - GHESKIO

Persevering in the face of unprecedented challenges

In 2022, the most challenging year ever for Haiti, GHESKIO persevered to provide treatment and care to those most in need, while conducting essential health research and medical training.

In 2022, the year of its 40th anniversary, GHESKIO:

- Kept its doors open, despite civil and political unrest and escalating gang violence
- Immediately confronted the most recent cholera outbreak
- Served vulnerable women and their children
- Remained a leader in the fight against HIV and tuberculosis
- Provided medical access and hope to the people we serve

With your contributions and support, you can be confident that GHESKIO will continue to deliver care for the most vulnerable in Haiti.

Thank you from all of us,

GHESKIO consistently responds to the needs of the Haitian communities. With Haitian leadership and management and a Haitian-majority board, GHESKIO has married a deep understanding of the needs of the most vulnerable Haitians with strong governance and impeccable financial management. The question is not why I have supported GHESKIO for over a decade, but how could I not?
